

Quick Start: Microsoft Flow

Congratulations! You're ready to automate some of your manual processes. Automation of manual or inefficient processes has a measurable returns on investments. But how do you get started?

Don't worry! Implementing new technology and processes can seem like a daunting challenge. We often hear said as "We don't know what we don't know" or "We didn't know that tool would be a good fit for that business problem"

The Quick Start: Microsoft Flow offers foundational knowledge of the tool, and how it can be used with different data and contexts outside of SharePoint. This day and half workshop is designed for power-users to learn and quickly apply skills to automate a business problem. The engagement consists of the following three pillars:

Understand

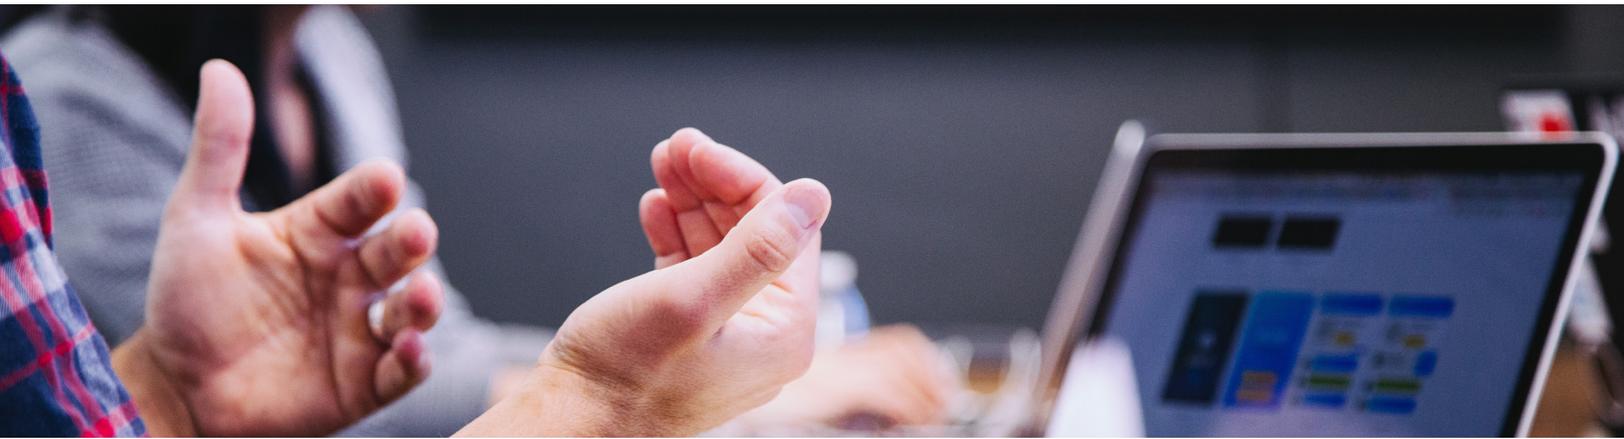

Learn core features and use-cases of Microsoft Flow. This is like teaching an artist about the brushes and the canvas's they will paint on.

Design

Dive into a current business situation that your organization is facing. Design an approach for how Microsoft Flow can be used to streamline or automate the situation.

Build

During the last session you will work with your consultant to build the solution to your organization's situation.

I'm ready to Quick Start Automation, but...

What will we gain?

- A fully functioning flow based on your organization's business processes
- An understanding of how a Microsoft Flow is triggered
- Knowledge on how to work with actions, expressions, logic and conditions
- The ability to setup automated approvals
- An understanding of how to connect with different data sets
- The ability to administer Flows
- Best Practices for building low-maintenance Flows
- How to use the Flow Mobile Application

How will it work?

1. Pre-engagement survey to understand your business priorities
2. In-Person Day-and-a-Half Workshop
3. A complete Flow based on your automation needs
